

TAFT VISITS DIAZ ACROSS TEXAS BORDER

Presidental Conference Held. Brisk Handshake in Room. Paper Walked Arm in Arm Into Sanquart Hall, But Were Not in View of Street.

San Antonio, Texas, October 16.—The whole world here is in a bustle over the visit here of President Taft in a talk at the Del Rio, this morning, with a crowd of several thousand women around him, "and they ought to rule in my family as in others." We may not like it, but we are so accustomed to that when they are in the ascendancy that we get along pretty well. We are within safe lines at any rate."

The President did not make any speech or point his finger in conversation with the crowd. It is a significant fact which was pointed out last night. The talk at the meeting during the festivities yesterday did Taft and Diaz appear together in public. The former, as chairman of the Chamber of Commerce in El Paso was, before military guard, done and dusted in his room at the El Paso house in Juarez, once more, in his military guard, doffed with a few words to the common places and nobody present when they left their private conference. Last night, the Mexican guard, who walked arm in arm into the banqueting hall, it is true, but at no time did the two men meet in public, that crowded the streets, have an opportunity yet seeing the two presidents.

There was a reason for it. For three weeks the chief of the department of foreign affairs of Mexico, the Mexican police breathes easy until late night, when the bandits are quiet. The first course was about to be served, not a man in the campamento, but the bandit who had been struck when he had been struck when a photographer outside of the building exploded a flask of dynamite to secure a picture of the building and some of the dines. He was quickly hustled away by the police escort.

The bandit was over presidential ears and had reached the point at the Mexican boundary, line where the Mexican and American troops of the United States took charge. The Mexican bands—they have now got to Mexico—had taken up "The Star Spangled Banner" as the Mexican banner opened with a salvo of 21 guns. Behind the bandit, the President in carriage were the members of his staff. The assault before the thunder of the guns, the entire party lifted their hats and the hearty voices roared the chorus of the hymn.

SPANISH SENATE SENSATION

Senator Is Charged With Attempting to Burn Jesuit College

Montevideo, Oct. 17.—A senator has been caused to resign in fling a complaint with the senate signed by the Captain-General of Uruguay, asking that the name of Senator, Senor Solis Ortega, who is charged with attempting to burn the college of the Society of Jesus at Barcelona, be struck from the records.

The Republicans in the Senate who were in the turbulences scenes Saturday were led by Senators Diaz and Moreira, who declared that the attack on the college was directed against Spain as a nation rather than the authorities of the province. The Foreign Minister, Senor Alfonso de Salazar, remanded the impression abroad that the Spanish government had certain ideas. He insisted that patriotic imposes duties, especially upon the Spanish people. Many Americans shook his fist in the minister's face saying "The real anarchists are the ones."

The foreign minister agreed to submit to the chamber the one document prepared by the Spanish government in other countries. During the afternoon in the chamber of deputies, after the reading of the documents of events at Barcelona, the meaning of the manifestations abroad, and the meaning of the Foreign Minister's Ferrer case. Senor Maura, the premier, retorted that the government was bound to act in accordance with what was done in Barcelona, where the laws would be continued to be applied. So far as the Republicans were concerned, Senor Maura declared, they were inspired by the same elements that inspired the gathering in Barcelona and by ignorance of the Spanish laws. He promised to submit.

The republican deputies have asked public meeting in protest against the action of Ferrer. If they expect to be refused they predict violence will follow.

MUNICIPALITIES CONVENTION Many Topics of Interest Discussed M. L. B. G. President, Red Deer, Now President

Lethbridge, Oct. 16.—The Union of Municipalities held its first session last night in the Hotel Alberta, Lethbridge. President Griesbach took the chair, opening the session by naming the committee on organization.

Major Henderson extended a welcome from the city of Lethbridge to the visitors.

In his presidential address W. A. Griebeck spoke of the general growth of the municipalities and the importance of representation in the legislature. He represented the inclination of larger cities to withdraw from the dominion, claiming they had no desire to be independent. He claimed that the smaller should help the weaker.

The secretary treasurer's report was read, showing total collections amounting to $16,685; total expenditures $16,685, leaving a balance of $0.00.

President Griesbach in the report of the Canadian Union convention stated that some municipalities wanted to leave the dominion, but that the Alberta union way off.

Mr. B. C. McLean, fire chief of El Paso, sent his paper on "The most economical fire protection for villages and towns." Mr. J. E. T. Smith, of the Canadian Union convention stated that the new commissioners wanted to leave the dominion, but that the Alberta union way off.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1909.

The Toronto News admits though with little show of remorse, that "James, the ten-faced god was probably a pronostic type of some Canadian editors."

The people of Agincourt, Ontario, have called a meeting to discuss the case of Wylie. They demand his death for the murder of his wife, and for whom a retrial has been granted. Apparently the speeches were of a fiery character. The defense lawyers have applied to have the speakers examined by a medical expert, and assert that it is now impossible to secure a fair trial for the culprit anywhere in the Province. The retrial was granted on the plea that it had not been sufficiently brought before the court. The defense lawyers say that Wylie was drunk when he committed the act. The lawyers' protest probably means that they cannot shake the evidence that Wylie murdered the woman, and that with this admission no twelve "good men and true" can be found in the Province who will acquit him; whether he is proven to have been drunk or not. This is rather more of a compliment to Ontario's manhood than was probably intended.

On the eve of his departure for South Africa, General Botha issued a vindictive edicting his ideas of his country's future and of the policy Britain should pursue toward it. He has now come back from South Africa, and has decided to let the curtain draw over the "miseries of the past; forget us for a while and give us a chance of solving our difficulties ourselves. I know what the British people are anxious that a strong and healthy nation should grow up in South Africa, and we in South Africa have firmly resolved, after the blood and tears of the past, to build up such a nation, a nation of which the Mother Country is justly proud. Both the white and black races in Africa need nothing save but a policy of mutual forbearance, of conciliation, and co-operation. Imbued with this spirit and policy am I returning to my native land." This is all very fine talk, but it is not likely to satisfy the other fellow. The colored man was there first and he is there still in the overwhelming majority. There is precious little promise for him in the General's recent reply. Yet Britain has made him a virtual master of Africa during the war not alone. All these to be implemented or forgotten? From their previous attitude toward the "Blacks" it is not likely General Botha and his friends will put them out of existence. They have got to promote and it is sought to include the British in the war will champion the native's cause at the expense of a rupture in the British family. Altogether the native's chance of getting the considerate treatment he needs and deserves do not seem very bright.

The Tammany machine bears a continental reputation synonymous with graft and corruption. For this reason interest attaches to the recent visit of the Tammany delegation to New York during the coming term. The iniquities of Tammany and the helplessness of any single opponent winning against its enemies into one of the "fusional" platforms. As a result they placed in the field for the mayoralty, Mr. Barnard, a man of unquestioned integrity and great business and social experience. Tammany's repugnance to these feelings. This reputed model of village chivalry, this organization has nominated no other than Judge Gaynor, a man who bears a reputation as an uncompromising enemy of graft and corruption, and as a "man of the people" in the Democratic party. In so far as its essential purpose of controlling the city to gain may be compatible with any general principles or affiliations Tammany is Democratic by profession and practice. The boldness of its move is thus the greater and the more astounding. At present the Tammany delegation is engaged in the time trying to find out what the game is, and to be finding plenty of occupation in the inquiry. This perhaps is the object, to keep them busy, to keep them under cover, and to make Tammany's name with a candidate who "boasts" in all things conform to the "boss's" wishes, but who would hardly be the candidate without some understanding of the public mind which demands a solid in the city hall. Or, maybe it is that even Tammany recognizes that there is a limit to the power to openly bulldoze the people, and he decided to give them one term of comparative autonomy in administration in order to regain the confidence of the public opinion. A can sometimes play with a mouse by allowing it to almost escape. Tammany is commonly typified by a jungle cat.

UNDERPAYING THE BOSS.

The Mayor of the city receives at least $1,000 per year. The other commissioners receive $2,400 each per year. The plain intent of the charter is that the Mayor shall be a man of substance, whose salary can be increased by reason of personal success. Such he certainly should be by every rule of business sense and such he usually is. When he enters the mayoralty chair he is, in fact, though not in theory, practically laid aside by the public. After that he has less and less audience and with every good intent to preserve his position as a half-bore one whose occupant would spend a few hours only per day at the city hall in the course of his duties. His business affairs thus rest of the time. But for some reason or other the attempts have failed. As things have worked out the Mayor is a commissioner in reality as well as in name, and is as popular as his colleagues. His duties are as many and as exacting or distracting. His responsibility is equal, perhaps greater, for the public look to the head of the concern as the most responsible member of it. His position quite as fulsome as he would be necessary if he were a commissioner in the regular sense of the term. The only difference indeed seems to be that the salary attaching to the job is not quite so large as the salary of this is not an abnormal state of affairs or peculiar to this year alone. It was equally true last year and has been generally true under the system from the first. Nor is it very likely that the salary will go up on the Mayor's birthday, unless unusual radical measures are adopted for shifting and readjusting the duties of the city executive. And along with this the readjustment should proceed is more than a mere increase in the multitude of little, but important details which require attention at some one handle and which seem to come most properly under the notice of the elected head of the city government. This is the only real problem. Both the white and black races in Africa need nothing save but a policy of mutual forbearance, of conciliation, and co-operation. Imbued with this spirit and policy am I returning to my native land." This is all very fine talk, but it is not likely to satisfy the other fellow. The colored man was there first and he is there still in the overwhelming majority. There is precious little promise for him in the General's recent reply. CORRESPONDENCE*ADVOCATES TWO BRIDGES.

Editor Bulletin:
Will you permit me to use a space in your paper to try to show the people of the city a few facts concerning the proposed bridge over the Bow River at the traffic attachment.

Firstly, I contend a continuation of the city as well as two bridges, one at the east end of the city and one at the west end, will be better for the city and will benefit all.

Secondly, the cost will be less, and the city better service.

Thirdly, the city will be better for the east and south factors coming to the city by way of Strathcona. This I believe will be the case.

Fourthly, we should have two bridges, especially since they can be constructed for less money than one long bridge.

Yours truly,
BATEPAYER.
Eden, Oct. 18.

CONDUCTOR'S TRAGIC DEATH.

McNeil Run Over by Engine
At Fort William.

Fort William, Oct. 19.—A young man, Allan McNeil, died yesterday morning at the hospital here from injuries received when he was run over by a freight train.

"Good-bye boy," said a friend.

"Good-bye boy," said a friend.

These were the last words spoken by Allan McNeil, 25, as he lay dying in the hospital, having been run over by a freight train two hours ago, having never moved before. Feeling in the best of spirits, McNeil faced the engine, and said, "Good-bye boy." The words and the train that had gathered around the unfortunate lad were the last words and the last able to make a reply.

McNeil gave the signal for the train to start, and when it did start, attempted to board the front running board. He had just finished loading coal when the train struck him full backward in front of the engine. The engine came to a standstill immediately, but he unfortunately fell from the wheel and passed away in his body. Dr. Cook examined the body and found that it was necessary to amputate the right leg near the knee and the left leg near the thigh. Both legs were broken and the blood was flowing freely. He was unable to stand, so much so that McNeil expired before he was cut out of the engine.

McNeil had resided at Chippewa Falls, Minn., for three years, and was a C.P.R. locomotive engineer. He was mixed up in a wreck which occurred at Chippewa Falls, and was killed. He was 25 years of age and unmarried. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus and the Brotherhood of Railroad Engineers. The remains will be shipped on No. 60 tomorrow to Chippewa Falls, where interment will take place.

COMMISSION AT PRINCE ALBERT.

Railway Board Hearrs Several Cases in Northern Saskatchewan Town.

Prince Albert, Oct. 19.—J. J. Bell, a director and shareholder of the Green Lake Lumber Company has announced himself as a candidate in the general election.

The hearing of the Railway commissioners today lasted only one hour, after train service between here and Fort Chipewyan was suspended, but General Traffic Manager Shaw said that the present business did not require immediate attention.

Balancing of the C. N. R. road between here and Melville was ordered by the commissioners. Previous to this the bridge approach was noted, also a means of swinging the large draw. Both railroads were attended by the commissioners left for Edmonton.

THOUSANDS' HEAR NEBRASKA ORATOR

free price by reason of their sacrifice of life and all for the sake of the generations to follow. We are continually losing our best men, those we owe to those who have gone before giving it. Those who are around us are failing to follow in the best that is in us.

Reasons for Belief in Divinity.

Mr. Bryan's reasons for his belief in the divinity of Christ. Argument followed argument in quick, forcible language, but the speaker was seen behind his statements. The sentences could not be easily forgotten because "the human measure of it is its incomparable divine measure of life." In other words, the most powerful argument in favor of the Christian faith is a Christian life. The tendency of the oration, however, was to emphasize the first part, that which has been the basis for all Christian teaching. Christ came to bring life and immortality to light. The emphasis used to be put on immortality, but now it is death; heaven; now it is put on life; now we may live to help others. Then comes Christ, who says that his soul shall lose it, and he that touches his life for it takes it. It is the words of a fanatic, but were the epitome of history. The speaker finished with a prayer that God would forgive him for the eventual history of the Christian truth. He believed that if one man goes to hell, he goes in those days to die for their faith in Christ.

HIS HOME IN THE OHIO.
The same scene occupied in His Honor, Lieutenant Governor Bayles, who happily received Mr. Bryan. The hour of thanks was moved by Dr. Terry and seconded by Duncan MacIntosh. The audience was highly impressed by the lecturer who bolted out that it would not be fitting for him to speak of the political events to discuss either his home politics or those of the country where he was born. He said that he had turned, feeling whether his audience was for him or against him if he stood up to speak. He said that he would be more than repaid for his visit.

The Y.M.C.A. are to be most heartily congratulated upon the complete success of Mr. Bryan's visit. The enthusiasm shown by the audience and the students that attended both functions showed the appreciation of the church and students that this "other tongued orator" has made an other conquest and will ever be a welcome visitor to this city.

Bryan's Entertainment in Edmonton.

William Jennings Bryan, silver-tongued orator, apostle of free silver, Nebraska statesman and the object of admiration of the world, arrived here by friends and foes to give to Edmonton and its people a lecture. He arrived yesterday evening from Vancouver where he addressed large audiences in Seattle, Victoria and Vancouver. He left again this morning for Calais, Lethbridge and Regina.

The Democratic leader, head of the Bryan campaign in the United States politics arrived without a pomp and show, but simply and supported by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Dr. MacIntosh.

THE DEMOCRATIC LEADER.

Stratford, where Bryan spoke, were Mayor Dugald, president of the Modern Woodmen of America, and Mr. R. Sayre, attorney general, and his wife, Mrs. Bryan with them, and Mr. and Mrs. John A. MacIntosh, president of the Y.M.C.A., and the chairman to the Y.M.C.A. committee which has been instrumental in making the arrangements for the meeting.

THE Y.M.C.A.

The black slouch hat, long coat, the appearance of an eminent speaker, but his features drive home the fact that he is a Canadian. Clean-shaven, with a well-kept, sensitive mouth, and speaking eyes, his face is a picture of health.

He has all an actor's facility for facial expression and emotional utterance. He shows no trace of a born orator, and it is a real pleasure to hear him speak.

It is a flying trip through the West for the Peirce's, inc. and time will wait for no man. They have a characteristic good nature to make a bulletin representative half hour cuttings, and when they arrived upon his arrival there, now.

"Too busy to talk politics," now, Mr. Bryan, but he had time to leave Edmonton to visit a good deal, the program, while very generally will keep him busy.

Well that's taking an unusual advantage of the vacation period, but the election is a long way off. Now I am on a lecture tour and I have put away my political ambitions.

This is my first visit to Edmonton and Stratford, and I will gladly go to any place where I can speak to you all.

LIGHTING SYSTEMS IN VARIOUS CITIES

Writer Compares Various Systems of Using Electricity. Political "Puff" is Seen—Peak Load, and Its Relation to Power Is Explained.

London, Oct. 18.—Glen Marion, a well known electrical engineer, in his talk on power work, while safety is the concern of gas and electric lighting and power companies, the American industry is in England for several weeks studying conditions in Great Britain, particularly those which control their own supplies of gas and electricity. Mr. Marion has been studying the methods employed in that city in the administration of its municipalized gas and electric lighting systems.

The most significant fact I found in Great Britain, said Mr. Marion, is that, although it is a municipal system in theory, it is in practice controlled by the government. The local authorities own the power plants and have one power only. One man actually controls the policy and destiny of the system. He can increase or decrease the load, where and how often cars shall run. He is to all intent and purpose and with latitude the sole commanding force.

Political Puff Seen.

"There are other distinct differences between British and American methods," said Mr. Marion. "British law, for instance, gives you current for political purposes at anywhere else."

"So far as electric lighting goes," said Mr. Marion, "the British are tenacious on the part of the public and private purveyors of the 'fluid' to take care of their own business. They do not have anything to do with the peak load, in order to raise the price, for instance, the more economically will each unit be produced."

"For this same reason American companies have greatly promoted the use of incandescent lamps, which help improve illumination. This is not so in Great Britain, where they have the best lighted show windows in Europe, but they are not as good as in America, in that they do not have more to produce under the English system."

"I can explain it in this way: Every electric plant has a certain capacity, and it is better to have it used up normally. It can produce just so much electric current from its machinery. The more it is used, the more it will maintain an average load of about 70 per cent. of its maximum. The best load is 100 per cent., but there is a charge of 29 per cent. I find. The difference may be accounted for in this way."

"Peak" Load Is Explained.

"This load is what is known as a 'peak load' in electrical language. The peak is shown on the company's chart, which shows the drawing of the current during the period of the highest load of the day. The peak is the point where consumption is greatest. No English company has ever striven for business. In Glasgow they have one town of 200,000 people while many an American town of 20,000 people have four or five canvassers. The idea of having canvassers, ers is to create business during those hours of the day when it would otherwise be lightless. In other words, to raise the average load, in order to get the company to produce more power, because to produce the peak load requires more machinery than the whole load of the day. The idea, of course, raises the whole cost of the current, and therefore the higher the production the cheaper the cost of production."

In America we develop power houses during the day to balance the lighting load during the evening. We have the great advantage of the convenience of using electricity and consequently American companies maintain a much lower average load than the English companies.

"Cheap electric power is not always an advantage, however. The Edinburgh authorities lowered the voltage for power to increase the efficiency of the electric companies, but the idea very hard, however, with the result that there has been no improvement in the amount of power consumed.

Must Reduce the Load.

"There are other distinct differences between British and American methods. British law tells you current for political purposes at anywhere else. One man actually controls the policy and destiny of the system. He can increase or decrease the load, where and how often cars shall run. He is to all intent and purpose and with latitude the sole commanding force."

"The reason is simply this: They must reduce the load, in order to raise the price, for instance, the more economically will each unit be produced."

"For this same reason American companies have greatly promoted the use of incandescent lamps, which help improve illumination. This is not so in Great Britain, where they have the best lighted show windows in Europe, but they are not as good as in America, in that they do not have more to produce under the English system."

"I can explain it in this way: Every electric plant has a certain capacity, and it is better to have it used up normally. It can produce just so much electric current from its machinery. The more it is used, the more it will maintain an average load of about 70 per cent. of its maximum. The best load is 100 per cent., but there is a charge of 29 per cent. I find. The difference may be accounted for in this way."

"Peak" Load Is Explained.

"This load is what is known as a 'peak load' in electrical language. The peak is shown on the company's chart, which shows the drawing of the current during the period of the highest load of the day. The peak is the point where consumption is greatest. No English company has ever striven for business. In Glasgow they have one town of 200,000 people while many an American town of 20,000 people have four or five canvassers. The idea of having canvassers,

HOLD YOUR BREATH OR SPELL MAY BE BROKEN

This is President McDearie of Pennsylvania Railroad's Advice to American People Concerning Legislation in Restriction of Corporations—Says Great Prosperity Depends on Leaving Capital Alone.

In America we develop power houses during the day to balance the lighting load during the evening. We have the great advantage of the convenience of using electricity and consequently American companies maintain a much lower average load than the English companies.

"Cheap electric power is not always an advantage, however. The Edinburgh authorities lowered the voltage for power to increase the efficiency of the electric companies, but the idea very hard, however, with the result that there has been no improvement in the amount of power consumed."

Must Reduce the Load.

"There are other distinct differences between British and American methods. British law tells you current for political purposes at anywhere else. One man actually controls the policy and destiny of the system. He can increase or decrease the load, where and how often cars shall run. He is to all intent and purpose and with latitude the sole commanding force."

"The reason is simply this: They must reduce the load, in order to raise the price, for instance, the more economically will each unit be produced."

"For this same reason American companies have greatly promoted the use of incandescent lamps, which help improve illumination. This is not so in Great Britain, where they have the best lighted show windows in Europe, but they are not as good as in America, in that they do not have more to produce under the English system."

Do You Realise the Danger of a

Poisoned Finger

DEATH OFTEN LURKS IN A CUT.

 YOU see this danger illustrated in the case of Mr. W. C. Edwards, a well-known Friendly Society leader, of Peter Street, Toronto. He cut one of his fingers with a piece of glass, and instead of applying Zam-Buk to prevent blood poison and to heal it, he neglected the cut, and blood poison followed. He says: "The blood poison from the finger spread up my hand and arm and caused me terrible agony. After two months' treatment the doctor said I must have an amputation. I intended to save my arm. I left that doctor and consulted another. After a few weeks' treatment, he also told me that operation would be necessary. He said the bone had become diseased and the finger would have to be amputated so the bone could be scraped. I went away to consider when I would have the operation performed and met a friend who advised me to try Zam-Buk. I did so. I bathed the wound in it and applied it. I slept on it the first night for many nights. In the morning the wound began to bleed instead of clotting as in the past. This was a healthy sign so I went on with it. Zam-Buk, Well, to cut a long story short, in a few days I put away the sling, and in a few weeks the finger was healed. When I told the doctor about it he said, 'I spent over $200 in doctors fees and when I think how much I owe it to Zam-Buk I am grateful for the balm I can tell you.'
